INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY – HERE IT COMES!

BY ROBERT T. SNOWDEN, ACTING HEADMASTER

In Through the Looking Glass, the following exchange takes place between Alice and the Queen:

"Well, in our country," said Alice, still panting a little, "you'd generally get to somewhere else - if you ran very fast for a long time, as we've been doing."

"A slow sort of country!" said the Queen. "Now here, you see, it takes all the running you can do, to keep in the same place. If you want to get somewhere else, you must run at least twice as fast as that."

I have to say that the bewilderment Alice feels is what many of us feel about keeping up with the progress of various fields of technology. Like another pair of imaginary figures, Hansel and Gretel, we probably view the gift of technology as a gingerbread house in the midst of the forest, that we approach cautiously for fear of the witch inside, and want to make sure that we leave a clear trail of pebbles back to the familiar world we are leaving behind. But there is no doubt we are on the path, and must go forward.

Compared with most schools, Ridley's place in the implementation of information technology is somewhere near the front of the line. We have CD-ROMs all over the school, computers in every department, E-mail throughout the campus, a theatre where light and sound are adjusted at the push of a finger, shelves of video cassettes, and a radio-wave language laboratory. I am happy to say that when someone telephones Ridley, a human being still answers the phone. Recent developments in communication technology and information storage and retrieval, however, do underline the reality that to be at the head of the line at one moment does not necessarily mean that the school will remain in that place. We who are responsible for making the decisions about planning and how money will be spent, must also be responsible for recognizing that the ways of communicating, of sorting information, and of learning that we are accustomed to do not include many of the ways of communicating, of sorting information and of learning that our students possess. Many innovations we find novel our students find perfectly natural in the worlds of entertainment, of telephones with call-waiting that have been devised in many cases just for those talkative teenagers, of interactive video games, of magazine pages that look more and more like screens taken directly from a computer using Microsoft Windows. The examples are endless.

Our current focus on information technology at Ridley springs from the need to make decisions in two separate areas, though the two definitely overlap. One is an administrative area, which we have been wrestling with for over two years, of assuring the orderly growth of effective, compatible and efficient technology for the management of communication and information. The other area is curricular, of taking thoughtful and judicious advantage of the developments in information storage and retrieval, in exchanging ideas, and in learning that our students are likely to use - with or without us. These decisions become more pressing when we realize we are talking here not just about the world our students are going to enter, but about the world our students are already in. One of the priorities from our Long Range Plan was to create at Ridley an "innovative, diverse and inter-connected curriculum". Last year our faculty, administrative team and Heads of Departments spent considerable time on this discussion, and one of the strongest messages from those discussions was that we should plan creatively and boldly to achieve our academic goals. It is clear that this planning must examine the influence of information technology on our programme. In the administrative area, it is clear that we cannot manage our expanding needs much longer without a more informed overview of all our technology plans. Hence the current urgency.

We are engaged in the development of skills that will allow our students to sift truth and wisdom out of that information.

Our conference on Information Technology in Education is one of several steps in this planning process. For two days, December 8 and 9, our faculty, parents and Board members heard about the experience of Dalton School in New York City, an urban day school different from Ridley in many ways, but a school at the leading edge of the use of information technology. Underlying the Dalton School's use of technology is the belief that learning should be as exciting and engrossing as athletic and artistic pursuits usually are for students. The contention of Frank Moretti, associate head of Dalton School, is that technology is making traditional textbook learning obsolete by providing the raw material distilled in those textbooks at the push of a key. This transforms students from passive learners into active discoverers of knowledge, teaching them along the way the skills of sifting the relevant from the irrelevant. Advances in communication and information technology are changing the world outside the school, and we have to plan intelligently if we are going to paddle with the current instead of being swept along by it.

The teaching of speaking, writing, reading, mathematics and study skills will remain central to our programme. The evidence in schools that have spearheaded the forays into the use of information technology is that all these skills are learned better if the school adapts well to these innovations. Ridley is in the midst of this change, and we are fortunate to have taken some considerable steps in the right direction with our current programmes and facilities. Our next steps will involve a review of curriculum in a few areas of Upper and Middle Schools, followed by the appropriate additions of hardware, new networks and fibre optics.

Most of us would concur that in education we are not really engaged in the passing on of information; we are engaged in the development of skills that will allow our students to sift truth and wisdom out of that information. To do otherwise is to throw our students into an unfamiliar sea, far from shore, and hope that like dogs and cats they will start paddling on the strength of a genetically-programmed skill. In this situation, our students would probably survive, but I doubt that they would excel. On the other side of the coin, most people probably know people whose skills have made them eminently successful in a particular sphere, so that they imagine that the skills and knowledge they possess are all the skills and knowledge anyone needs to succeed in life. One encounters this arrogance in many walks of life, and the world of technology is no exception. At Ridley we embrace the kind of broad education that consciously avoids that kind of arrogance. Our interest at Ridley is not in the sink-or-swim approach, nor in focusing on a few trendy skills at the expense of others. It is clear that technology is already part of our lives, and can be a useful new tool to teach some very traditional truths. We live in exciting times. RT

The TigerNet that is proposed for the School would encompass all areas of campus from dorms to classrooms. A preliminary schematic drawing was compiled by all departments with current equipment and wish list items being listed so a master strategy can be established.

THE SEARCH FOR THE EIGHTH HEADMASTER

BY JOHN R. ANDERSON '65,
CHAIRMAN OF THE HEADMASTER SEARCH COMMITTEE

While for Rupert and Judy the process began on January 10th, 1994, for the Committee it began much earlier — September 1993 to be exact. For all of the committee members it was an extreme honour to have been asked to take on such an important task for Ridley. In the end it was indeed an honour but also a lot of hard work, great fun and, most of all, a truly rewarding experience — an experience that one none of us will ever forget. But, I am ahead of myself. Let me go back to the beginning.

With the tremendous help of Janet Wright and Jim Lundy of Landmark Consulting we first tackled the difficult task of getting down on paper what our ideal candidate would look like — what eventually was called the Candidate Profile. To do this, the committee met many times throughout the fall. We met at the school at a general meeting where all faculty and staff had the opportunity to bring forward their views. We also met with all the school prefects, the full faculty committee, the housemasters committee and the administration team, as well as a number of individuals who had specific ideas they wanted to bring forward. Several drafts were presented and discussed with those at the school. The committee also received numerous letters and calls from members of the Ridley family — all of this input led to the final profile being set in late November.

It was now the turn of Janet Wright and her team to get ads put together and start networking. Eventually, over 100 applications were received from very qualified people from Canada as well as the U.S., Great Britain and many places around the world. It was a very satisfying response which demonstrated that the school is well known around the world as an extremely prestigious and qualified place of learning. While there were lots of applications, there were also lots of phone calls placed to people who probably did not see the ad. It was from one of these phone calls that our successful candidate was sourced. But I digress again.

Throughout the months of January and February the committee met numerous times pouring over the applications trying to get a “long list” and then a “short list”. It was a difficult task since the quality of many applicants was high. The “long list” indicated a surprising number of U.K. candidates and, since Janet was interviewing all “long list” candidates, a flight to the U.K. was required. Crawford Gordon kindly offered to go along since it was evident that we were going to have to incur the costs of bringing some candidates to Canada. With Crawford going with Janet, it gave us a little extra assurance that the candidates invited back would be acceptable to the committee as a whole.

Eventually the “short list” was established and in the second week of April the committee began the arduous task of interviewing those candidates who had been selected. Each candidate went through the same process

Rupert and Judy were so impressive, they had such great credentials, they were so clearly outstanding that in the end it really was an easy choice.

— a three hour interview, with the candidate having fifteen minutes for opening remarks, followed by two hours of questioning by the committee, and the last bit of time for the candidate to ask us questions. Each interview ended with a social occasion (either dinner or lunch) to which the candidate's spouse was invited. Before and after each candidate was with us, the committee spent much time debriefing and making notes. This process started Sunday noon and by Wednesday afternoon we were all pretty exhausted. As a result, we decided to leave the decision making-process to Thursday morning.

Throughout the process we had been concentrating on six criteria. Members were responsible to lead or second discussions in their areas of interest/expertise. It was on these six criteria that we would concentrate that Thursday morning beginning at 7:00 a.m.

To begin, it was generally agreed that all 6 candidates could fill the position — the job was to find the best one. Frankly, I think we were very lucky to have had such a large number of candidates to choose from. In the end, it did not take much time. By 8:30 a.m., Rupert Lane was the unanimous choice of the committee. It wouldn't have taken this long except a few committee members wanted to get through their muffins before they got down to work. What could have been the most difficult part of the process turned out to be the easiest. Rupert and Judy were so impressive, they had such great credentials, they were so clearly outstanding that in the end it really was an easy choice.

Now the committee sits back and reflects on what was truly a great adventure for each of us — and we reflect and smile with the knowledge that we did a great job and that Ridley College can go into the next century with confidence that it has made the right choice with Rupert and Judy Lane. RT

MESSAGE FROM RUPERT LANE

It all began on January 10th, 1994. "Would you", said the voice speaking from Vancouver, "be interested in applying for the headship of Ridley College?" The thought had not occurred to me, but in Monmouth (a small town on the Wales-England border), calls from Vancouver were hardly an everyday occurrence, and Ridley—along with, say, "Bishops", Capetown and Geelong Grammar School—was instantly recognizable as one of the handful of exceptional schools in the world. Perhaps it was worth a second thought. Information passed both ways. There were long periods of silence: it had all been a crazy dream. Eventually, Mr. Crawford Gordon and Dr. Janet Wright came over to the U.K. and visited us at Monmouth School. My secretary, instantly curious, asked me what on earth those charming Canadians were doing in Wales: it was pointless to fib—especially to such a shrewd friend. We liked each other and Judy and I agreed to come over to Canada for an interview in April. At the very least this would be an interesting experience.

It turned out to be even more interesting than we had expected. Larry, our garrulous, all-seeing limo-driver, assured us (in the strictest confidence) that a number of candidates had been interviewed and pointed out Kenyon Lett House—"hopefully, sir, your future house". The morning at Ridley was most impressive. The students, especially our two guides, were forthcoming, pleasant and clearly proud of the College. Mr. Snowden was patience and clarity personified and the Faculty was welcoming and extremely professional. This was clearly a marvellous place.

At lunchtime, heavy rainspots turned into a down-pour and we were ushered off the premises. Time to visit Niagara, escorted by the delightful Bob and Pat Stanley. Our photograph shows Judy under an umbrella and a misty background with the barely discernible Falls. The Stanleys were more than equal to the elements, however, and introduced us to Brock University and the Inniskillin Winery. Thus, the day, which ended at the Oban Inn at Niagara-on-the-Lake, was a truly memorable one.

The interview in Toronto, which followed, lasted for three hours. Surprisingly, however, this was a most enjoyable afternoon. Little detail sticks in the mind, but the Search Committee were quick to put the nervous candidate at his ease, and if they were fatigued at going through the process for the 'nth' time, they evinced the utmost skill in concealing the fact. In the final analysis, when Judy and I were offered the position, it was the sheer niceness of everyone involved—Search Committee, Faculty and students—which left us in no doubt that we should accept it.

The final phase of this happy saga was the longest and paradoxically most stressful. John Anderson, as Search Committee chair, had formally offered us the post and we had accepted formally in April. Nothing, however, could be announced until September—nor communicated to Faculty at either end, nor even intimated to our three children—all for reasons, as they say, “outside everyone’s control”. We survived. People also took the news staunchly when it broke, to our immense relief.

At the time of writing, we are undergoing what is normally termed “the honeymoon period”. The Monmouth students and Faculty are being incredibly kind and tolerant. Our recent visit to Ridley was equally agreeable and reassuring: fuller appreciation of the task ahead left us humbled by and grateful for our good fortune. Mr. Snowden, Mrs. Lewis, Dr. Scott and others had clearly done a marvellous job in preserving morale and preparing the path. We hope we can measure up to the expectations. The honeymoon will end soon enough, of course, but then—as those who are married know—honeymoons are only a beginning, and they are not typical of what is to follow. We will do our utmost to make our new life a success, for Ridley and all its offspring. RT

BY CHRISTOPHER J. LOAT '62, HOUSEMASTER – MERRITT SOUTH
& MARGARET E. WATTERS, MIDDLE SCHOOL GRADE 7 TEACHER

As temporary resident of the Tower apartment, it has fallen to this scribe to pen a few words on the first term of the 1994-5 school year. It has been a term of anticipation of the arrival of the new headmaster, Mr. Rupert Lane, and his family to Ridley. His brief sojourn in October was well received by faculty and students alike as he and Judy made their first official visit to the campus a successful one. We all look forward to their arrival in January.

Returning in September, the students were met with the results of the summer works projects. Denizens of Merritt House saw refurbished rooms on first flat, replaced stairwells and new washroom facilities. The Fitness Centre has been finished and filled with state of the art equipment to produce one of the best equipped fitness rooms in any school. This has been a long-time project of Mr. David Whitty, and he should be very pleased with the final result.

There are a few staff changes that should be noted. The previous writer of this column, Mrs. Libby Rupp, has taken a sabbatical leave to Greece for the year. She will be returning next fall. Mr. Rick Coy and his wife Woody return to us after their year of travel and rest. New faces in the Faculty room are Ms. Kim DeBon in the English Department, Ms. Carol Luce in Mathematics and Computer Studies, Ms. Leanne Mladen in Art, Ms. Sarah Thompson in Science and Mr. Doug Wilson, new head of the Modern Languages Department. Junior masters in the Middle School include Ms. Suzanne Court '86, Mr. David Hall, Mr. Mike Ison '89, Mr. Mark Richards, Ms. Shannon Smith and Ms. Kathryn Yates '90.

Also returning after a year of writing and working on the Ridley Archives is Mr. Paul Lewis. His book, Ladies and Gentlemen, Mr. Harry 'Red' Foster, on the life of Harry "Red" Foster, an old boy of Ridley and founder of the Special Olympics, was published this fall.

This term was filled with the usual activity and bursts of energy. The beautiful fall weather did much to create a wonderful atmosphere amongst the body of the school. The successes of the teams and the involvement of the students in the various activities resulted in a happy and productive term for the school.

The school opened with 570 students, representing thirty-four countries. 203 students (35%) come from foreign countries. The male population is predominant with about 57% of the total population and the boarding component 65%. There were 206 new students this year, most of whom are now fully integrated into the life of the school.

The academic side of the school has had a high profile this term. With the first set of effort grades, it was discovered that almost half the School was on the Excellent Effort list. The Headmaster threw down the gauntlet challenging the school to reach the 50% plateau in return for a meaningful sleep-in. The next set of grades was better, but had not yet reached the magic level. In November, however, the students responded with more than the required number on the list and the resultant sleep-in was well received by most.

In December, the school hosted the Information Technology Conference. This was designed to discover the educational opportunities available through new technology, particularly with respect to computers. It was organized by Mr. Stephen Hunt '82, Mr. Brian Martin, Mrs. Janette Auer, Mr. David Cosgrove, Mr. Michael Hamilton, Mr. George Briggs and Mr. Jim McLaughlin. Speakers and workshops were arranged to show those of us at the school and members of the Board of Governors some of the capabilities of this medium of education. It was very informative and provided some exciting possibilities for the future.

On the artistic side of school life, there has been a lot of activity. The choir has performed in Buffalo, and the highlight of their year to date has been the Carol Service. Under the direction of Mr. Michael Tansley and Mr. Ken Hutton, the choir performed magnificently. Marco Petracchi '95, Jenn Olchoway '95, Larry Szeto '95, Tim Best '95, Ada Chung '95, Lara Housez '98, Michael Schadinger '00, Jennifer Epp '95 and Yvonne Lee '95 were some of the soloists and the choir as a whole moved the school into the Christmas season. Some of the members sang carols in Niagara-on-the-Lake during the Christmas break.

The Jazz Band has been practicing diligently. They have performed in chapel and have been travelling around the city to various places performing concerts for those who are unable to go out and take part in the Christmas festivities. Mr. Clyde Dawson has been training these young musicians, some of whom are Leke Badejo '98, Allison Tooton '98, James Spearing '97, Adam Wyrchimaga '95 and Andrea Boulay '96.

including England and Cyprus. This was a tremendous experience for all involved.

Drama continues to be an important facet of the arts programme at Ridley. The O.A.C. class presented When No Means No, a play which dealt with date rape, written by and featuring the members of the drama class. In main roles were Amy LeMar '96, Sarah Andrew '96 and Dan Beamer '95. About 200 students, faculty and friends attended the performance in the Mandeville Theatre and gave it an enthusiastic reception.

The Art Department provided important educational experiences for its students. Trips have been made to the Barnes Exhibit in Toronto, Rodman Hall in St. Catharines to see Ms. Karen Kulyk's (ex-faculty) show and to the Albright-Knox Gallery in Buffalo with more excursions planned throughout the remainder of the year.

Shamir Doshi '95 travelled to Huntsville, Alabama last August to participate in a week-long course at the U.S. Space Academy which was partially funded through the Class of 1939 J.R. Hamilton Memorial Award for Science Enrichment. Here, Shamir is attempting to land the orbiter in the flight simulator!

The Chapel continues to be an important part of the moral and spiritual side of the school. The Friday service has been made more student-oriented with a new service format. As well, Old Ridleyans have been speaking once a month about their time at Ridley. To date, Ms. Nadine Karachi '87, Mr. Jeff Smith '89 and The Rev. Bruce Chalmers '78 have spoken. The prefects have been involved in the daily services as have a number of staff members, including Mr. Colin Brezicki, Mr. Rodney Reimer, Mr. Paul Lafrance, Mr. Brian Iggulden '67 and, of course, the Headmaster, Mr. Bob Snowden and Chaplain, The Rev. Dr. Gerald Shantz.

Students have played a large part in the successes of this year. Students for Students, an organization committed to the on-going betterment of the students has been busy organizing dances and promoting programmes on mental and physical health issues on campus.

A Benefit Concert was held in the fall in the Mandeville Theatre. This showcased many of the talents of the students and staff and was well received by the audience. $750 was raised which will be donated to Childfind.

The Extra-Curricular Programme is a vital component of the development of the Ridley student. There are vast numbers of options available. Some of these provide services for the community of St. Catharines, such as Bethlehem Place baby-sitting and Disabled Kidswim, while others are geared to the development of the individual such as the Duke of Edinburgh programme. Others include recreational activities such as Equestrian, Dungeons and Dragons, School Reach and Drivers' Training. There are many opportunities for students to be involved in school service such as monitors of the various facilities, peer tutoring and theatre organization. The publications have need of volunteers and there are numerous clubs available. Over sixty different activities are available and most of the students take good advantage of the opportunities that are presented.

Fourth Dimension blended the old with the new this year. The annual November visitation continued some of the customary activities. The O.A.C. students embarked upon visits to universities as part of their planning for next year. The grade nine class returned to the always valuable Camp Kandalore. This year, a spectacular campfire was organized as one of the cabins caught fire as a result, it is thought, of leaving clothes on the heater to dry. Fortunately, no one was hurt, and the camp continued on to its conclusion. For several years this has been a fun and useful way for the grade nine students to get to know each other.

The grade ten class went en masse to Ottawa this year. Under the direction of Mr. Ken Hutton, a whirlwind visit to the Capital City was used to supplement the History course. The trip coincided with Hallowe'en and a number of the class were thrilled when they went "trick or-treating" at 24 Sussex Drive and were given their candy by the Prime Minister himself!

Grade eleven embarked upon an odyssey to examine different ways that the students might involve themselves in the service area of the Niagara Peninsula. Visits to different social service organizations, a clean-up of the Merritt Trail and a number of on-campus functions resulted in a varied programme under the direction of Mr. Paul Lafrance and the Grade Eleven Committee, led by Scott Snowden '97. Others who helped were Chris Loat '97, Zoe Steele '97, Karsten Von Hoesslin '97, Anjali Kundi '97 and Jeremy Fowler '97.

The Grade Twelve Committee, under the guidance of Mr. Geoff Park '80, had a two-pronged focus this year. Half of the programme was provided by the Institute for Enterprise Education. The other half was organized and run by the students. Danielle Clark '96 and Sarah Tanner '96 put in a great deal of effort mobilizing their grade, and the highlight of the week was a casino night run by Jay Tredway '96, Romesh Galagoda '96, Alka Kundi '96, Sophie Kallinis '96 and Claudia Haegle '96. This fall saw a record number of successes and accomplishments for the school's sports teams. The first Field Hockey continued its excellent record, coming second in the Independent Schools League, winning S.O.S.S.A. and advancing to O.F.S.A.A., where they were defeated in the quarter-finals. Coaches, Mr. and Mrs. David and Nancy Whitty, were very pleased with the successes of the team which was led by Naledi Bainbridge '95, Jessica Locke '95 and Lindsay Wright '98.

The second team, coached by Ms. Kim DeBon, and led on the field by Sarah Andrew '96, Erin Murray '96 and Heather Rigby '95, won eleven and tied two of its sixteen matches. These players should provide a strong foundation for next year.

The football teams had something of a resurgence. After dropping their first four fixtures, the first team won its next three games to qualify for the Championship. They lost in a closely fought game to T.C.S. Team leaders were Luke Ware '95 and Mark Cosgrove '95 and coaches Messrs. Rasmussen, Jenkins, Rickers and Bryan were indeed proud of their players.

The Under 16 football team produced some fine games and will provide the first team with many players in the future. Chris Hawthorn '98, Dean Lloyd '97 and Bryce Murray '97, under the direction of Mr. Rick Coy

The Grade 10 trip also spent a terrific hour with the Speaker of the House of Commons – the Hon. Gilbert Parent (centre in robes). Gib Parent is the M.P. for the Welland, St. Catharines and Thorold riding and was very generous with his time as our students asked many different questions about how the Canadian government is operated.

'60 and Nick Holmes, led the team to eight wins in ten matches.

Girls basketball showed tremendous success in the Independent School League. Coached by Mr. Alan Cox and led by Amy Holliday '95 and Penny Smith '95, the First team came in second place with nine wins and three losses. The Under 16 team, coached by Mr. Dave Gagné and Ms. Leanne Mladen, won the Championship. Notable players were captains Heather Tredway '98 and Kate Tanner '98, as the team won eleven of its twelve matches.

Boys soccer was strong again this year. The first team was undefeated in league play. Led by Jonathan Drake '95, Jay Tredway '96 and Bob Belan '96, it appeared that a championship was in the works until a 1-0 loss to T.C.S. in the semi-finals. Coaches Mr. Paul O'Rourke and Mr. Brian Martin have much to look forward to as many of this year's squad return next season.

Coached by Mr. Geoff Park '80 and Mr. Tony Sherman, the Tier II team was extremely powerful. Led by Erik Natvik '97, Chris Beard '95 and Dave Tucker '96, the team won seven of its nine fixtures. In the final tournament, their season ended in a loss in a penalty shoot-out. The Under 16 squad was coached by Mr. Paul Bedard and Mr. Nat Caters. The team had trouble winning matches though they managed to stay close thanks in part to the tremendous play of goalie, Paul Wylie '98. Toby Strassenburgh '98 led the offense while other stalwart performers were Craig Scott '97 and Robby Cole '98.

Mr. Raymond Nield and Mr. Chris Loat '62 coached the Under 15 soccer team which continued its success of the past few years. Losing but one of its matches, it retained the U/15 Championship. The strong players this year were Gowan Tervo '98, Andrew Shaver '98, Mike Drake '99, Chuck Cilliers '99, Doug Hatch '99 and Eric Partington '99. The girls' swimming teams continued to be successful in the pool. All meets were won by these teams which were led by Allison Griffiths '95 and coached by Mrs. Andrea Shemilt, Mr. Paul Lewis and Ms. Carol Luce.

Finally, the Harriers squad had another successful season, winning the CISAA Championship at T.C.S. and sending the Junior girls' team and Gen Okita '95 to the OFSAA Championships. Sam McGlone '98, Liz Boak '99 and Kevin Canning '98 were a few of the many who performed well in the various meets attended by this strong squad which was coached by Ms. Maggie Swan and Mr. Paul Lafrance.

The annual Cross Country Race was held in November. Gen Okita '95 won the Senior race and John Dill '95 was second. The Junior race saw Shawn Naylor '97 the winner. The midget race was very exciting as Chuck Cilliers '99 narrowly defeated Mike Drake '99. In the female divisions, Jennifer Alcock '95 won the Senior. Sam McGlone '98 won the Junior, while Liz Boak '99 won the midget. The Middle School winners were Michael Schadinger '00 and Hilary Nudel '01.

Vanessa Thorne '95 was named Rowing Canada's junior sculler of the year in November. She was also named runner-up for the overall sculler of the year trophy. Vanessa stroked 2 crews (junior quad and the straight four) to gold medals at the Canadian Henley held in St. Catharines last summer.

The Middle School has also been extremely busy with a full schedule of academic, athletic and extra-curricular events. As is most often the case, the most memorable events took place out of the classroom. The Grade 8 trip to Stratford to see The Comedy of Errors was unusual in that one of the main actresses was pregnant and this was worked into the script so that she gave birth at the end of the play. All were surprised when two days later, we read that she had given birth in real life and all performances had had to be cancelled. The Grade 8's went to Laurentian Lodge this year. Stressing the theme of pride, the students were encouraged to work through a number of problems. New student, Michael Maddison '00, shares his impressions in the following report of the experience:

"Our three day trip to Laurentian Lodge has been a memorable one. I found that all the activities had something in common and that is PRIDE. To climb the wall, to gracefully paddle through the calm waters, to sit in darkness thinking about your life, or to walk the distance on thin cables, all of these challenged our skills. For me, the activity which gave me the biggest pride was climbing the wall. I reach with all my might for the next block which is millimetres from my fingertips. Then I pull myself up and slam hard against the board. Finally, the goal. I think climbing produced the most pride because it takes so much effort. Fortunately, when you've reached the goal and you're looking down at everyone, they cheer you. When you try it, you will know what I mean."

The Model Rocket club was one of the most popular activity groups with 22 members led by Mr. John Shea. Members bought, built and then launched their rockets in a variety of styles, sizes and materials. Noteworthy was Eric Cooper's '01 splendid rocket that on launch day soared gracefully skyward, only to crash and shatter on the parking lot. Fortunately, it was able to be modified and rebuilt. Andrew Sinclair '00 created a gyrating "Meat-tray" rocket that was definitely one of a kind. However, launch day saw the realization/destruction of many a dream.

Debating has been an important part of the programme this year. The Middle School students have been joining with the Upper School students on Thursday evenings for debating and practice in public speaking. Sara Morgan '00, Kumala Nio '02, Alex Felton '00, Paul Lee-Chin '00, Fernando Berliner '00, Liz Dancy '00 and Lindsay Kindellan '00 have been enjoying the experience gained and the advice given by the senior students.

The Under 14 soccer team was particularly successful under coaches Mr. Jim Milligan, Mr. Andrew Corolis, and Mr. Rob Poe '90. With captain Paul Delano '00 leading the offense and Jonathan Wong '00 in goal, the team placed third in the Independent Schools' Tournament.

In November, Fourth Dimension for Middle School involved learning about endangered species. Seven teachers each prepared material on one species and the students moved in groups through each of the presentations, which ranged from Mr. David Mackey's Game Show format on the elephant to Mr. David Hall's costumed representation of the lifestyle of the gorilla.

The next day the students took an excursion to the Metro Zoo and actually saw the animals they had been learning about. Other projects included raising money for the Tiger Fund and the Owl Foundation.

Also in November, at the Royal Winter Fair held in Toronto, Alex Wilson '00 won the children's hunter division. Alex qualified through the 14 shows he entered in 1994 which was enough to enter the Ontario Championship which he won and allowed him to advance to the Royal. Congratulations Alex!

In December, there was a door decoration contest to get into the Christmas spirit. The pizza prize was won by the Grade 5 class for their chimney with an upside-down Santa falling down it, and decorations of Christmas stockings, Santa's snack and tiny coloured lights.

The Grade 7's, led by teachers Mrs. Ruth Court and Mr. David Mackey rounded out the year with visits to three Senior Citizens' homes, singing Christmas carols. Special performances were given by Elizabeth Abraham '01 and Rebecca Leung '01 on the piano, and Hilary Nudel '01 who gave dramatic readings and sang.

These snapshots of activities and events make up the very full album that was Ridley's 1994 Michaelmas Term. If any have been omitted, the fault lies solely with your obedient scribe. It has been an extremely busy term and an extremely rewarding one for us at the school.

The next issue of Tiger will see 'View from the Tower' written by Mr. Bob Snowden as he resumes his position of Assistant Headmaster, Student Affairs, and returns to the Tower office. Mr. George Hendrie presented Bob with a Headmaster's tie last June, and he should wear it with pride. He undertook the role of Acting Headmaster with enthusiasm, diligence and style. Ridley has been well served by Bob Snowden. Faculty, staff and students thank Bob for his leadership.

A NEWFOUNDLAND ADVENTURE DANCING WITH WHALES

BY ROBERT J. MALYK,
BIOLOGY TEACHER & WHALE ENTHUSIAST

In the fall of '93, I was preparing to fly to Boston for a meeting at the National Association of Biology Teachers Annual convention. Frank Hollinrake '57 handed me a book entitled Dancing With Whales by Dr. Peter Beamish (O. R. '58) and suggested it might offer some good reading while in flight to 'Beantown'. The suggestion was a good one and after emerging from the enthralls of the book I immediately called Peter Beamish and inquired about the possibility of bringing a group of students to Newfoundland. He was most supportive of the idea and the rest becomes history. For the ten years that I have been at Ridley, it has been suggested to me more than I can recount, that I visit with Dr. Peter Beamish, his family, and the whales of Trinity Bay, Newfoundland. So that is exactly what we did. A group of 13 of us flew out to St. John's on June 30, 1994. From there we were met by Peter's two sons Nick and Tim who although pleased to shake my hand, were more interested in meeting the young ladies from Ridley.

Upon arriving at Trinity, we were greeted by Peter's wife, Christina, our most congenial hostess and the innkeeper of the Village Inn. Trinity is a quaint hamlet with a population of 150. It is nestled between a 150 meter hill, which sports a spectacular view of the surrounding area, and the glistening Atlantic. Trinity has two churches: an Anglican for most of the populace and a Catholic church for one family of six. This family has the key to the church and if asked will conduct personal tours.

Our first evening provided us with an orientation session with Peter who gave us a short talk on whales in general, his research on rhythm-based communication, safety instructions concerning the zodiac, our seaworthy vessel, and how to don our exposure suits. We were so filled with excitement of the week's offering that getting to sleep was most difficult followed by an early rising of anticipation.

After slipping into our bright orange one-piece exposure suits and posing for our first group photo, we set off in search of the whales of Trinity Bay. Our group resembled the flight crew of a NASA space mission. The water was very choppy, but we were incredibly safe aboard our Zodiac. We spotted many species of pelagic birds, i.e., gannets, murres, guillemots, and puffins. Peter recounted tales of past experiences with humpback whales and spawning capelin; we studied many bald eagles (soaring overhead) catching the updrafts and spiraling to their roosts high atop spruce trees on Eagle Island.

Evenings back at the Village Inn allowed for summations of the days' experiences, sharing of wonderful meals prepared by a friendly staff under the watchful eye of our hostess, listening to Peter's lessons on his theories about life, communication, and how to enjoy a "holiday".

The next morning we were up at 5:00 a.m. and after a quick breakfast on the water at 6:00 a.m. We slipped silently out of port and slowly groped our way through a very heavy fog bank. We came across many skiffs with two people aboard pulling up their nets, which were mostly empty except for the odd wolf fish, lobster, or flounder. We watched the roe as it was being extracted from the lungfish. Peter purchased the largest lobster I've ever seen to be enjoyed by the entire group for our closing supper. Each fisherman we spoke with foretold the same sad prophecy; that this would be his last haul, or his last season. It was time for them to move on as the sea was yielding less with each pull of the net. But where were they to go, coming from so many generations of fishermen?

As we bid farewell we moved further into the fog to see a shape forming in the obscure horizon. As we snaked our way closer we could see it was an iceberg stranded on a sandbar. Nick estimated its age to be about 3000 years old with a brilliant 3 year old blue vein through the main core. The water lapping the iceberg was a vivid turquoise and in the ice one could see many enslaved fossils.

Talk was now centering around the whales and why we hadn't seen any. The capelin were late this year and whales feed off of capelin. Tomorrow we would sail to Bonaventure Head in search of our own "Moby Dick". Arriving at Random's Island we spotted our first whale, a minke whale (Balaenoptera acutorostrata), which Peter quickly identified as Adam "David" named after my twelve year old son who was along for the adventure. Adam "David" was about 18 feet in length and was demonstrating feeding behaviours such as lunge feeding and bubble feeding. Minkes share the characteristics of a dark back, white belly, a sickle-shaped dorsal fin with a white crescent pattern and white patches on the flippers. We stayed with Adam "David" for about an hour or so and then bid him farewell.

Later in the week, we visited nesting areas for puffins and kittiwakes in Melrose and Bonavista. We spotted the highly toxic lion mane jellyfish as we paddled through the many corridors of caves carved by the tidal hand of the sea. We travelled the sea searching for the humpback only to see more minkes. Our week was quickly coming to an end and still no humpback.

Upon awaking our last morning we found ourselves on red alert. Peter had called from Bonavista saying that three humpbacks had been spotted from shore and that we were to get out there pronto. Upon arriving Peter had the Zodiac fueled and ready to go and informed us that we had to leave immediately as a gale was fast approaching. We set out under the guidance of two of Peter's researchers who were stationed on the point at the lighthouse keeping a watchful eye on our elusive prize. We were communicating by radio and navigating by way of their instructions, whales at 12 o'clock about three miles off shore heading straight out to sea. The sea was becoming fiercer with each passing crest. The water was turning an ugly gray and we were being bounced around like a child's beach ball. Never were we in any great danger as our vessel was a sturdy one. We hurriedly bounced over the waves following the whales. We saw more Minkes who, at another time would have evoked excitement, but now were just in our way. Further and further out we went just to become more and more frustrated. The whales were there but the cruel sea was unrelenting. They were to remain hidden for yet another adventure.

Although we saw few whales, we nevertheless experienced so much more. We met impassioned people in love with their Newfoundland and its offerings. We were awed by the beauty of our Canada at every turn of the road or bay that we entered, and hill that we scaled. Our dance with whales was truly an adventure to savor for years to come. RT

The Ridley College Jazz Band

D. CLYDE DAWSON, ASSISTANT MUSIC DIRECTOR

It's 7:00 a.m. and some students receive an abrupt awakening by a teacher with a little too much enthusiasm. They groan but realize that persistence is his hallmark and the inevitable is inescapable. Twenty-two students in all perform this ritual every Tuesday and Thursday morning with relentless regularity. They proceed to the Band Room in the 2nd Century Building, brightening a little as they anticipate the hot coffee, juice, fruit and assorted edibles which await them. Instruments are assembled, places taken, an occasional grunt, squawk and squeak are uttered; one last swig, one last bite and ..."1, 2, 1, 2, 3, 4 ..." — Jazz Band practice begins.

It is a rigorous half hour exercise consisting of note bashing, rhythm deciphering, dynamic variations, articulation extravagances and a lot of yelling. It would be considered unquestionably an exercise in futility if it were attempted by any sane person, but that qualification has never been associated or equated with the band leader, Mr. Dawson, assistant music director for Ridley College.

Since the beginning of the year, the Jazz Band has performed at Association Weekend and several Christmas concerts at Heidlhof, St. Catharines Place, Linhaven Home for the Aged, as well as in Chapel at school. The Band's energy, enthusiasm and power transport the audience, young and old, to heights of excitement and appreciation for the big band sound. This is, of course, a reflection of the dedication and talent of the Band members themselves. It is no menial task to commit to a musical team all year long and still meet the scholastic, athletic and social demands of Ridley College. Yet the Band is planning to transcend even these expectations in the new year and not only make a profound musical impact at the local level in JazzFest 1995 on March 1st and the Kiwanis Music Festival on April 18th, but also abroad at University School in Cleveland, Ohio, during the Great Lakes Arts Festival on April 20, 21 and 22.

The Band's mission in 1995 is to add another dimension of recognition to the already proud traditions of academic, athletic and artistic excellence for which Ridley College has become known and to establish yet another initiative in which students can take pride. RT

DOUGLAS J. CAMPBELL SEVENTH HEADMASTER OF RIDLEY COLLEGE

On Friday, December 9, 1994, Ridley welcomed back Doug and Donna Campbell, and their children Tim and Robyn '93, to officially unveil the portrait of Doug which will hang in the Great Hall. Over 170 friends of the Campbells attended the evening to acknowledge the contributions Doug and Donna each made to the success of our School during Doug's tenure as Ridley's 7th Headmaster.

The portrait (pictured above) represents the third work of the husband/wife team of Robin and Istavan Nyikos. Istavan did Jere Packard and Darcy McKeough and Robin did Doug. All are excellent renditions. As Doug commented, "It is a daunting experience to look over and see oneself!"

THE OLD TIGERS

The inaugural Old Tigers Club Reunion was held on the first weekend of October with small but enthusiastic numbers. The Old Tigers are those alumni who have celebrated their 50th reunion and wish to visit the school at times other than their 5-year reunion. There was a pre-weekend Niagara Tour to the St. Catharines Lock Three Complex and Historical Museum, a wine tasting at Inniskillin Winery in Niagara-on-the-Lake and time to walk about in the town as well.

The Inniskillin Winery tour was of particular interest.

GEORGIAN BAY

To take advantage of pleasant weather and with the hope of seeing some new faces in the Georgian Bay Branch — perhaps some who are not able to get out in the fall or the winter — Brian Iggulden travelled to Collingwood and Orillia on July 22 and 23. Small but enthusiastic gatherings of faithful Ridleians greeted Brian at the two locations.

After a rain-abbreviated round of golf at Monterra, a lovely dinner was hosted at the home of Bob and Georgina Waind. Their easy warmth and graciousness made us all feel most welcome and sincere thanks are extended to Bob and Georgina for their good humour and faithful support of Ridley. In attendance were Doug and Diane Crews '70, Justin and Eileen Cork '49 and past parents Orval and Joanne Jackson.

Mark Downing '89 made arrangements for our group to lunch at the Fern Resort on Saturday. Thanks to Paul Nichols '48, Mr. & Mrs. David Geary '45, Mr. & Mrs. Greg Henn '66 and especially to Mr. & Mrs. Harold Wilson '30 for their support of this event, and to Mark Downing for his help.

Next summer our new Headmaster, Rupert Lane, looks forward to meeting branch members and to trying out some of the golf courses in the region!

NIAGARA

On September 22, the Niagara Branch of the Ridley College Association was reborn under the chairmanship of Ms. Nadine Karachi '87. Assisted capably by her executive committee members, Allan Fishburn '70 and Timothy Rigby '58, Nadine turned out a group of about 40 current and past parents, alumni and faculty members to re-launch the Niagara Branch. This branch is currently the second largest in the Ridley family, and the enthusiasm of this group we hope will grow and produce gatherings similar to those seen in Toronto at their annual branch functions.

The inaugural gathering was held at the school. It is intended that future meetings will be held in other locations in the Niagara region and provide an opportunity for local Ridleians to become familiar with the ongoing changes at the school and to network with each other. A welcoming reception is planned for Rupert and Judy Lane on February 23 at the St. Catharines Golf and Country Club and branch members will be informed via the mail.

Congratulations are extended to the steering committee of the Niagara Branch for organizing an enjoyable re-inauguration. If you feel like assisting with any future events, please contact Nadine Karachi at 356-1622 or the Development Office at the school at 684-8193.

Volunteer helpers at the Niagara Branch's first event on September 22nd. From L-R: Kathryn Yates '90, Dean Purdie '87, Melissa Katzman '86, Bill Morrison '86 and Branch Chair — Nadine Karachi '87.

VANCOUVER

On October 15, Bob and Anne Snowden travelled to Vancouver for a successful reception held at the Arbutus Club, organized by Bill Marler '66 and his wife Betsy. The turn-out was a bit smaller than in the past, apparently because it was held on Saturday night, when many of our association members were away. Nevertheless, we had an enthusiastic group who did their best to dispose of the gracious display of hors d'oeuvres Bill Marler had supplied. One of the surprises of the night was the appearance of Martha McKay '86 who was passing through Vancouver and ran into Graham Stanley '85 on the Lion's Gate Bridge on the day of the reception and took him up on the suggestion that she appear at the Arbutus Club.

We are very grateful to Bill Marler for his time and energy spent in tracking down members of the Association and getting them out to the evening. We look forward to seeing the crowd again next year.

EDMONTON

Under the chairmanship of Fred Partington '67 a gathering was held at Claude's on the River in downtown Edmonton on Monday, October 17. Brian Iggulden was travelling west to attend a conference on planned giving and took the opportunity to meet with Edmontonians to bring them word of the new Headmaster's appointment and keep them up to date on events on the campus. Thanks are extended to Fred for turning out a good mix of alumni, current and past parents and prospective families on such short notice.

BERMUDA

Acting Headmaster, Bob Snowden, and Brian and Rosemary Iggulden made the annual sojourn to Bermuda on November 2 to conduct student interviews and to attend the annual branch meeting on Friday, November 4. A slightly different format was adopted for this year's gathering. A presentation of slides and video was made at the Dinghy Club at 5:00 p.m. for prospective students and their families — then alumni, current and past parents were invited to a reception which followed this presentation.

This new format was an excellent success and one enjoyed by both branch members and their Ridley guests. Mr. Snowden's talk to prospective families attracted 25 - 30 people, and an additional 30 - 40 branch members joined them afterward.

Jim Butterfield '70 presented a cheque for $2,000 which will be added to the capital of the Bermuda Branch Scholarship, now capitalized at slightly over $140,000. This year represented the 64th anniversary of the first Bermudian attending Ridley College, and the support of the scholarship program will help continue this proud and treasured legacy of Bermudians at Ridley.

The sincere thanks of the school are extended to Jim and Debbie Butterfield for their hard work on behalf of the school as well as to Jim's assistant, Mrs. Stella Winstanley, for all of her support and assistance in making arrangements on behalf of the Ridley representatives.

At the Bermuda Branch reception, visiting New England branch chairman, Sam Anderson '45 joins the Mayors — Bill, Jr. '73 and Bill, Sr. '45. A large contingent of Bermudians came out to welcome the Bob Snowden and the Igguldens in early November.

Brian Iggulden '68 accepts a cheque from Jim '70 and Tyler Butterfield which represents many generous gifts by Bermudians to the Bermuda Scholarship.

HALIFAX

The Halifax Sheraton served as the site for this year's reception on Thursday, November 19th, organized by chairman Gord Powell '62. Beautiful Nova Scotia weather greeted Dr. Lowell Scott, Assistant Headmaster, Academics, Don Rickers, Director of Admissions and Derek Fraser, Assistant Director of Development, on their arrival in Halifax.

Approximately 25 guests were in attendance including a large group of Dalhousie University students as well as Dr. David Fensom, former faculty who travelled from Sackville, New Brunswick. The trio from Ridley were most impressed with the friendly maritime welcome they all received. A hearty thanks to Gord Powell for his efforts in arranging a great evening.

NEWFOUNDLAND

After a quick flight from Halifax, Lowell Scott, Don Rickers and Derek Fraser arrived in St. John's and were welcomed to Newfoundland by chairman Geoff Tooton '70. A brief 2 hour tour of the environs of this famous city, and it was time to check in and head to Murray's Pond Fishing Club.

An intimate group of alumni came out as well as seven prospective families who were interested in hearing about Ridley. Don Rickers presented the school video and slide show, and then fielded questions. Thanks to Geoff and to his wife Jo-Anne for their wonderful hospitality. RT

The annual United Kingdom branch dinner was held on November 1st at The Cavalry and Guards Club in London along with alumni from Upper Canada College. Some of the Ridley alumni attending were, from L-R: Peter Cobb '47, Jim Bisiker '46, Tony Partington '65, Edward Montagu '45, Cedric Francis '33, Henry Bathurst '45, Michael Turner '51, Robert Penney '47 and Anthony Thres '46.

ARCHIVAL CORNER

Ridleians who remember H.C. Griffith, Student 1889 – 1896, Master and Headmaster 1899 – 1907 and 1911 – 1949 will recall his love of all sports and team sports in particular. While baseball was not played at Ridley during his years, he at times, expressed admiration for the game, which, in his opinion, was spoiled by abuse of the umpire and unruly crowd behaviour. For this reason, along with a desire to produce excellence in cricket, baseball bats and gloves were rarely seen at Ridley.

An exception occurred in the spring term of 1943 when 12 students came together to form the “Ridley Engineers”. The name came from railway caps the team wore. A unique team crest (Porter Pfohl’s is in the Ridley Archives), T-shirt, cricket pants and running shoes completed the uniform. Games were played against various St. Catharines teams, in great secrecy, on a public field south of the school. The team derived much strength from four members of the 1st cricket team — Stevens, (batting) Pfohl, (fielding) Hayman and Greatrex, (pitching combined with the batting) and the fielding skills of Coddington, Freeman, McFarlane, Shields, Carlisle, McKee, Carley and Slater to produce a winning side. Anything resembling a baseball swing had to be quickly adjusted prior to cricket nets taken by Dr. Griffith and other coaches during the following week.

The highlight and down-fall of the short-lived Ridley baseball team occurred at Prize Day in 1943. Ridley played the St. Catharines Industrial All-Stars, under lights in town and won 3-2 on a great pitching effort by Greatrex.

The following morning Dr. W.J. Chapman, Ridley Physician 1923 - 1950, who was at the game and cheered as much as he ever did at a football game, stopped in to have a sherry with Dr. Griffith before Prize Day, as was his custom. With delight he advised the

Headmaster of the tremendous victory “his boys” achieved over the local baseball all-stars.

Dr. Griffith’s wrath was somewhat tempered when, at Prize Day, Porter Pfohl was awarded the Mason Gold Medal, Bob Stevens, the Cricket Batting Prize, and Murray Greatrex, the Cricket Bowling Prize. Tom Hayman returned the following spring to play in the annual Old Boys’ Cricket game where he bowled a “Hat Trick” to the delight of Dr. Griffith.

Note: Trophies displayed in the team picture were borrowed from the Upper School trophy cabinet.

Our thanks to Tom Hayman and Porter Pfohl for their gift to the Archives of a team picture and crest and to John Carlisle who joined Tom and Porter in sharing memories of events that occurred over 50 years ago. R

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

The Class of '44 – 50th Class Reunion

I had the privilege of participating this last October in our 50th class reunion along with my wife Carmelina, my wife of 48 years and my sweetheart during my days at Ridley.

I remember clearly when I was first introduced to my classmates in September of 1940 at the dorm at Merritt House. Since I did not know the English language, I started in the Third or Fourth Form, two years behind my class at the Christian Brothers School in Havana. I was 16 at the time, and my classmates were only 14 or 15. Thus, at first, I was a little disappointed with being put back with some "youngsters". But as you will see, my disappointment did not last long.

I quickly became immersed in the wonderful Ridley athletic program of those years. Being older, I made the 1st Team in basketball. And being a seasoned veteran of the depression-era Havana streets, where swimming and boxing were matters of survival, I also won the school competition in those sports. My classmates never understood how a third former was doing so well in Ridley sports. So, after 50 years I thought I would finally reveal my secret. I was older!

As time passed, I grew very fond of my wonderful classmates. I have always cherished their friendship and the hospitality they showed to a boy from what was then a far away land. And after 50 years, I have come to realize that I also belong to a group of very distinguished professionals, doctors, lawyers, soldiers, and businessmen. Men who, by the way, have shown to be very devoted family men. Most of the class has managed to adhere to the marriage vow of "till death do us part". What an outstanding class!

Needless to say, I was not the only one to excel in sports. Bob Stevens and Don McFarlane were outstanding athletes and no doubt belong to the legends of Ridley performers, as the following story will illustrate. During the 1948 Olympic games in London, I was a member of the Cuban basketball team. I was selected to carry the Cuban flag for the festivities. During the inaugural ceremonies, I saw a handsome, young Canadian carrying the Canadian flag, whose face seemed familiar even from a distance. As he got closer, I could not believe that it was "Dough" McFarlane, class of '44! How proud I was for our school that two Ridley Old Boys, from the same class were carrying their countries' flags at the first Olympic Games after the war!

The class of '44 is unique and of course, we all believe it to be the best. Maybe I am egocentric and have written too much about myself in this letter. I just wanted to express my admiration for my classmates, as well as my appreciation for their friendship during all these years. They never made me feel like a stranger or a foreigner, but just a fellow Ridleian.

Very truly yours,
Raul G. Ordóñez '44

Letter to the Editor

I note the advertisement for the new biography about Harry 'Red' Foster on the pages of your last issue. While the piece mentioned many of Harry's accomplishments outside Ridley, it may be of interest to Ridleians to know Harry was a member of the Class of 1924, that he was a member of Ridley's Advisory Council of the Board for many years, and that he was the President of the Ridley College Association from 1950 - 1952.

Sincerely,

F. Kendrick Venables '34
